Description

A copper engraving titled "Kingdom of Portugal," published in Venice in 1775 by Antonio Zatta and taken from the Atlante Novissimo, Volume I. The map depicts the territory of Portugal with its main administrative divisions, cities, settlements, waterways, and mountains, offering an interesting geographical representation of the country in the second half of the 18th century. The large cartouche in the upper left corner is particularly decorative, featuring the coat of arms of Portugal and a composition including a landscape, a boat, barrels, and other elements related to trade and navigation. Engraving on laid paper, with borders and details hand-painted in watercolor in the style of the period. The sheet measures approximately 49 × 38 cm and consists of two sections joined in the center.
