Description

Indonesia, Celebes Islands, a remarkable and rare votive sculpture in bronze depicting a babirusa, an emblematic and endemic animal of certain islands in the Indonesian archipelago. Originally, this bronze was offered to a deity in an ancient sanctuary to implore a blessing or to give thanks for a fulfilled wish. The babirusa is a mammal of the Suidae family, endemic to certain islands in Indonesia (notably Sulawesi). It has long upper canines that grow upward through the snout and curve dramatically toward the forehead. Good condition, with normal wear that does not detract from the piece's beauty. Dimensions: Length 30 x Height 20 x Width 16 (cm). The scale model in the last photograph is a small lighter from a well-known brand.
