Description

White calcite sphere with dark inclusions and a druse-like cavity, characterized by a delicate cream-white color and a distinctive internal structure rich in natural inclusions and veins. The polished surface reveals large gray-black inclusions that run through the body of the stone, creating an interesting contrast with the milky hue of the calcite. On one side, there is a natural cavity lined internally with a dense crystallization of small, clear crystals, almost forming a small geode. The combination of the perfectly spherical shape, the polished surface, and the irregularity of the internal mineralization makes each specimen particularly striking: a sort of small geological landscape enclosed within the stone. Dimensions including the base: H: 20 cm, Diameter: 11.1 cm Weight: 2.15 kg Shipping: International
