Description

A large bronze sculpture with a golden patina, depicting a young nude dancer balancing on the tip of one foot, her body delicately animated by a twisting movement, her arms raised in an elegant and dynamic pose. The figure rests on a circular bronze pedestal adorned with small spheres, mounted on a substantial quadrangular base of white marble veined with pink and orange, with beveled sides. Beautifully modeled, particularly evident in the rendering of the body, hands, and hair. Signed and dated on the pedestal: "F. Ouillon Carrère 1919." A work characteristic of French sculpture from the Art Deco period. The piece is referenced in specialized literature devoted to Art Deco figures. Period: 1919 Artist: Fernand Ouillon-Carrère (1879-1959) Material: bronze, marble Patina: gilded / bronze-toned Total height:
