Description

We present this superb mahogany "handkerchief" game table with apron, dating from the Napoleon III period and in the Louis XIV style. It features round, fluted legs with brass feet. It unfolds like a handkerchief--hence its name--and on each panel (four in total), there is a round, brass-trimmed compartment for holding chips. It is designed for four players. On one of the four sides, there is a drawer for storing cards and tokens. The playing surfaces of this game table are trimmed with brass piping. No peeling, no missing parts. Has not undergone any restoration. Condition is like new. Shipping not included
