Pair Of Large French Neoclassical Vases In Polychrome And Gilded Porcelain - France

9 500 EUR

Period : 19th century

Condition : Bon état

Material : Porcelain

Height : 50

Description

An important pair of French porcelain vases, dating to the first half of the 19th century, between the Restoration period and the early Louis-Philippe era, still fully in keeping with the Neoclassical style. The vases feature an elegant amphora shape with a tall, flared neck and a circular foot. The bodies are characterized by a refined, nuanced reddish-brown hue with a warm, velvety appearance, contrasting with the deep blue of the necks and bases, which are embellished with rich gold decorations. On the front of each vase is a finely painted, polychrome allegorical female figure set within an elaborate gold-ornamented medallion. The two personifications are identified by the inscriptions "INDUSTRIE" and "LITTÉRATURE," representing Industry and Literature, respectively.
