Description

Corsican Landscape - Luminous View of Inland Corsica Oil on plywood by François Corbellini depicting a Corsican landscape rendered in the artist's characteristic luminous and warm palette. Through this composition, Corbellini sensitively captures the terrain and light of the Mediterranean island that served as his primary source of inspiration throughout his life. Here, the painter develops an intimate and poetic vision of Corsica, blending harmonious tones with the simplicity of the subject. Through his watercolors and illustrations, François Corbellini was one of the ambassadors of Corsica's burgeoning tourism industry. The island's landscapes inspired much of his work and established him as one of the leading figures of the Ajaccio School in the early 20th century. A student at the École des
