Description

A lovely Italian mandolin made of light sycamore, rosewood, and ebony for the neck, dating from the early 20th century with an indecipherable signature; this beautiful instrument, missing two steel strings, is highly decorative and, once restored, can still delight the ear; I am selling it for its decorative beauty, as I am not a musician, but this instrument is well-maintained and in relatively good condition--a must-see for lovers of Neapolitan bel canto.... It just needs to have its two high-pitched strings replaced and be carefully cleaned.
