Description

This Art Nouveau-era bangle features a snake with its head passing through the loop at the tip of its tail. The top of its head and its neck are adorned with "scales." Its eyes are two small rubies.The body is interrupted by an opening with a secure clasp. At this point, two hallmarks are visible: the "eagle's head" for 18-karat gold and the goldsmith's mark. It is a hollow gold bangle, weighing 6 grams, in very good original condition (two slight dents)
