19th-century French Planter In Boulle Marquetry With Inlays Of Gilded Brass,

6 500 EUR

Period : 19th century

Condition : Très bon état

Material : Wood marquetry

Description

A magnificent 19th-century French planter, highly decorative and exquisitely crafted in the famous Boulle marquetry tradition. It combines luxurious materials with exceptional craftsmanship, characteristic of the French decorative arts of that era. The planter is richly adorned with intricate marquetry combining gilded brass, silver-plated metal, and colorful inlays, creating an elaborate interplay of contrasts between the materials. Its refined design and meticulous details lend the piece a particularly sumptuous appearance. Inspired by the prestigious marquetry techniques developed in France during the reign of Louis XIV--and carried on by master cabinetmakers in the 18th and 19th centuries--this planter reflects the renewed interest in Boulle-style furniture during the historicist period.
