

Pair Of Bronze Statuettes On Marble Pedestals, 19th Century

350 EUR

Period : 19th century

Condition : Bon état

Material : Bronze

Description

A pair of gilded bronze statuettes on gray marble column bases, depicting Renaissance-inspired figures. One depicts a bearded soldier with medium-length hair, holding a torch aloft in his left hand, his sword sheathed, and holding a scroll in his right hand, like an explorer. The other depicts a young peasant in simple clothing, wearing a wide-brimmed hat and resting, leaning on a cane. These two figures have a historicizing character, contrasting their postures--one calm and the other more dynamic. The identification of the soldier as Charles I in the sculpture of the soldier is not supported by any documentary sources. Beautiful patina on the gilded bronze. Visible shards at the corners of the marbles. Good overall condition. Dimensions: H: 24 cm and 22 cm, base: 7.7 cm
