

12mm-caliber Break-action Shotgun 410/50 - Scn26obj012

1 350 EUR

Period : 19th century

Condition : Bon état

Material : Wrought iron

Length : 86 cm

Description

Rare shotgun with a tilting grip, 12mm 410/50 centerfire caliber, Saint-Étienne, late 19th century SCN26OBJ012Collector's firearm classified as Category D (available for sale to adults 18 years of age or older; valid ID required in accordance with current regulations). No permit requiredBeautiful and rare shotgun manufactured in Saint-Étienne (late 19th century), 12 mm centerfire caliber, designed for small hunting or bullet cartridges (410/50)For black powder cartridges only....Smoothbore steel barrel (bamboo-wrapped), length 78 cm.Total length 86 cm.Grip length 12 cm.Tilting system (tilting grip) with extractor.Tilting system release button (located inside the grip).External hammer (concealed in rest/safety position).Folding trigger tail concealed (automatically springs out upon

Dealer

French Antiques Normandy

antiquaire généraliste

Tel : 06 75 87 95 30

Mobile : 06 75 87 95 30

Bayeux 14400

closing). Operation Set the hammer to the first safety notch -> press the release button -> tilt the handle to load the cartridge -> close (the trigger spring returns) -> cock the hammer -> fire. Upon reopening, the half-moon extractor ejects the cartridge case. Safety can be maintained by leaving a cartridge chambered with the hammer in the rest position. Complete and functional mechanism (to be checked; lubricate thoroughly based on your inspection). Original appearance with patina from use. Pistol-style grip (probably ebony). Rare break-action shotgun with a tilting grip and external hammer, produced in Saint-Étienne in the late 19th century (circa 1880-1900). No manufacturer's markings are visible on known similar examples; handcrafted in Saint-Étienne or by a small local manufacturer. This RARE design differs from more common walking guns (such as the Dumonthier breech-loading type, the Étoile/Manufrance internal-firing type, etc.). Ideal for collectors of unusual firearms, 19th-century system canes, and discreet self-defense/hunting weapons.