Description

Paul Charlot (1906-1985) was a French artist whose graphic work is distinguished by a supple and expressive line. His pencil drawings, executed with great freedom of line, capture the essence of movement and the human form with remarkable economy of means. This pencil drawing from 1964 depicts a stylized figure with clean, sinuous lines. The continuous line, both firm and spontaneous, attests to the artist's complete mastery during his mature years.
