Description

Rare pair of Paris porcelain mustard pots in the Napoleon III Second Empire style. A superb pair of tabletop mustard pots with attached saucers made of hard-paste porcelain from Paris, dating from the 19th century (Napoleon III Second Empire period, circa 1850-1880). Each piece features a rimmed lid with a notch for the spoon and a handle shaped like a seed-filled fruit. They are adorned with a rich hand-painted gilded decoration featuring an interlaced monogram beneath a crown within scrollwork cartouches, with a gilded border around the edges. Length 13 cm, Width 8.5 cm, Height 11 cm. Very good overall condition for the period; beautiful gilding, porcelain intact. Paris porcelain; no mark on the base--typical of custom-made pieces for large manorial or bourgeois table services. Shipped with
