Description

An important antique 18th-century necklace, crafted in 18-karat yellow gold and richly decorated with polychrome enamels. The piece features an elaborate composition of floral and naturalistic motifs, with flowers, leaves, scrolls, and openwork elements that are finely crafted and harmoniously distributed along the front of the necklace. The goldwork is embellished with vibrant enamels in shades of green, turquoise, light blue, red, purple, and white. Small colored cabochon elements further enrich the composition, lending depth and luminosity to the piece. The central section features a particularly rich and symmetrical design, while the ornamental elements gradually extend toward the sides until they connect to an elegant yellow gold chain with intertwined links. A captivating antique
