480 EUR

Period : 18th century

Condition : Très bon état

Material : Glass

Diameter : 21 cm

Description

A blown-glass candy dish or bonbonnière consisting of a round bowl, a fluted lid topped with a twisted handle, and a base. The bowl and its base, both decorated with radiating ribs, are raised by a thick band of glass worked with pliers and applied while hot. The maker's mark is visible in the center of the bowl. France, probably Normandy, 18th century. Dimensions: rim diameter 21 cm - bowl diameter 17 cm - total height 12 cm. The set, of a handsome size, is in very good overall condition, with no cracks or chips. There are a few minor scratches from normal use on the base and on the lid. The glass is sound, with a good luster and scattered small air bubbles.
