Description

Impressive oil on canvas depicting a nocturnal fishing scene. In a dark and highly atmospheric setting, several fishermen are shown working around their boats, illuminated by the warm glow of lanterns. Their figures stand out dramatically against the night, creating beautiful contrasts of light and shadow and giving the composition a strong, mysterious presence. The unusual and spectacular subject, together with the painting's large dimensions, makes it a particularly decorative work. The canvas bears a long signature in the lower part, but it remains difficult to decipher. As a precaution, we do not propose any attribution, although the composition and atmosphere may evoke a Northern European school. This old painting has undergone previous restoration and shows some signs of age,
