

Pair Of Large Venetian Apothecary Jars By Mastro Domenico Betti, 16th Century

36 000 EUR

Signature : Mastro Domenico Betti

Period : 16th century

Condition : Bon état

Diameter : 20 cm

Height : 39 cm

Description

An important and rare pair of large polychrome majolica apothecary jars, attributed to the Venetian workshop of Mastro Domenico Betti and dating to the 16th century. The two jars are notable for their considerable size and the richness of their polychrome decoration, dominated by shades of blue, yellow, green, and ochre. On the front, within large circular medallions, elegant female figures are depicted, surrounded by an elaborate array of volutes, plant motifs, and Renaissance-style ornamentation. The quality of the craftsmanship, the monumental scale of the forms, and the rarity of a pair of this size make this set of particular interest to collectors of antique Italian majolica. A significant testament to the Venetian Renaissance tradition of pharmaceutical ceramics.

<https://www.proantic.com/en/1825907-pair-of-large-venetian-apothecary-jars-by-mastro-domenico-betti-16th-century.html>

Dealer

Arte Antica

Antiques o Fine Art o Antique Majolica

Mobile : +39 335 6066467

Via Maria Vittoria 13

Torino 10123