Description

An elegant and charming watch holder that also serves as a ring sizer, characteristic of display and boudoir objects from the Napoleonic III era (late 19th century). The delicate, airy structure is crafted from gilded brass wire, adorned at its center with a finely chased floral frieze. The upper section features a curved hook holding a medallion with a fluted frame, designed to hang a pocket watch. The base holds a circular cup of blown-molded glass in a luminous turquoise-blue hue reminiscent of the creations of the Portieux glassworks. This glass is embellished with a radiating geometric relief design and stylized floral motifs. This delicately crafted piece is ideal for showcasing an antique watch while also serving as a jewelry dish (for rings, brooches). Height 24 cm, ring holder diameter 10.5 cm. The
