Description

Oil on panel, "Maternity," by Gustave Paredis
This work depicts a stylized portrait of a mother holding her child near an open window overlooking the sea, a timeless composition combining the warmth of motherhood with a vast coastal landscape
The painting shows strong Cubist and Expressionist influences
Paredis (1897-1963) breaks down the forms of the mother and child into geometric planes and sharply defined shapes, drawing on a subdued and atmospheric palette of blues, grays, and earthy tones to evoke a sense of serene introspection and tenderness
This work is painted in oil on a wooden Unalit panel 87 cm wide and 109 cm high
