

Still Life With Peonies. Maximilian Maksolly. Estonia, 1930s

5 000 EUR

Period : 20th century

Condition : Bon état

Material : Oil painting

Width : 87

Height : 93

Depth : 8

Description

An elegant still life titled "Peonies" by the Estonian painter Maximilian Maksolly, created in the 1930s. The composition features a sumptuous bouquet of blooming peonies arranged in a turquoise vase, illustrating the artistic pursuit characteristic of European painting in the first half of the 20th century--that of expressing the beauty of everyday subjects through the harmony of color, light, and emotion. The delicate color palette is based on subtle transitions of blue, lilac, pink, and pearlescent tones, creating the impression of a light chromatic veil. The freedom of the brushwork, the soft modeling of the forms, and the decorative expressiveness of the paint give the work a sense of freshness, lightness, and optimistic vitality. The painting reveals the artist's particular attention to the texture of the flowers,

Dealer

Maison Antiquon

Fine Art & Antiques

Mobile : +33 6 30 17 47 17

Rue de France 48

Nice 06000

the play of light on the petals, and the harmonious balance between the subject and its surroundings. Presented in a decorative frame, this work highlights the intimate and collectible nature of the still-life genre. Signature: Signed "M. Maksolly" in the lower right corner. Dimensions: Canvas: 77 × 71 cm. Frame: 93 × 87 × 8 cm. Medium: Oil on canvas. Provenance: Private European collection.