Description

An elegant Belgian Art Deco umbrella stand from the 1920s, featuring an openwork geometric pattern in black-painted metal and a brass-colored border. Its structure combines twisted vertical rods and interlocking circular motifs, creating a harmonious interplay of lines and shapes characteristic of early modernist design. The umbrella stand rests on a hexagonal base fitted with a metal saucer, whose natural patina highlights its architectural silhouette. Its understated geometry and the subtle contrast between black and brass make it a refined addition to entryways or lobbies. A robust French dining table crafted in solid oak, featuring a rectangular plank top supported by trestle legs joined by a pegged stretcher. The design emphasizes structural integrity and artisanal
