Description

A very beautiful biscuit in perfect condition, depicting a nude woman sitting gracefully on a rock by a spring. Its refined decoration, with elegant and flowing lines, perfectly illustrates the Art Nouveau aesthetic. No chips, no cracks, and no repairs; signed "Tell" on the rock. A Viennese sculptor active around 1900 in the Art Nouveau / Jugendstil; he worked for the Goldscheider publishing house. He is credited with numerous female and Orientalist figures in terracotta, bronze, and marble, such as Judith, the Water Carrier, the Spring, etc...
