Description

A small portable icon depicting Saint Alexander Nevsky, created using the traditional finift enamel painting technique and mounted in a silver frame. The central enamel image depicts the holy prince in accordance with traditional Orthodox iconography, highlighting his veneration as the heavenly protector of warriors, defender of the Orthodox faith, and one of the most revered saints in Russian history. Miniature enamel painting is distinguished by its exquisite attention to detail and carries on the traditions of Russian jewelry art from the late 19th and early 20th centuries. The silver setting, with its understated and elegant design, emphasizes the intimate and devotional nature of the object, intended for personal use and prayer. Hallmarks: Master's mark with the initials "??." Silver fineness mark
