Description

A small original oil painting on panel by the Venetian painter Alessandro Milesi (1856-1945), a leading figure of the Venetian school from the late 19th century through the early decades of the 20th century. The work depicts an evocative Venetian scene featuring a tree, a bench, and a low wall, rendered with swift, luminous brushstrokes that capture the light and atmosphere characteristic of the lagoon. The composition, with its intimate character, is a refined study from life, typical of the artist's landscape work. The painting is signed "A. Milesi" in the lower right corner and is presented in an elegant gilded wooden frame, with a fabric mat and an identification label.
