Description

A Chinese Fangding-style bronze incense burner, accompanied by its stand, from China and dating from the late Qing Dynasty in the 19th century. The three-part set features an ancient ritual form and a well-developed surface patina. The quadrangular body rests on four legs and retains cast motifs and the traditional construction of an incense burner. The stand completes the set and attests to its decorative and ritual use. The bronze exhibits an antique patina, oxidation, and signs of wear consistent with its age. The condition is that of an antique object with surface wear; no cosmetic restoration has been reported. Dimensions: height 29.5 cm, width 18 cm. Weight: 2.6 kg. Reference: SKU 510.
