Description

Wrought-iron chandelier created by Alberto Gerardi (1889-1965), featuring a circular latticework structure that supports nine vertical arms. Each arm is designed to hold lighting candles, arranged in a ladder-like pattern, giving the piece a distinctive and functional design. This work of art, originating from Italy, dates back to the early 19th century and reflects the craftsmanship of the era in working with wrought iron. Product condition: This lamp, due to its age and wear, may require restoration and likely has an electrical system that does not comply with current regulations. We strive to present the lamp's actual condition as fully as possible through the photos. If certain details are not clear from the photos, the information provided in the description shall prevail.
