Description

Victorian sideboard crafted from mahogany, featuring an elegant design with a stepped front and projecting side panels. The piece features three drawers set within a molded band beneath the top, offering ample storage space. The lower section consists of four paneled doors, adorned with leaf motifs and scrollwork at the corners, which lend a touch of refined craftsmanship. The turned legs add stability and an elegant finish. The interior is made of oak, lined with a burgundy fabric that enhances the overall aesthetic. A period piece from late 19th-century England, ideal for spaces that call for a touch of history and class. Product condition: Due to its age and wear, this item requires restoration and refinishing. We strive to present the actual condition of the piece as completely as possible
