Description

Day and Night: This pair of monumental medallions, after the original marble sculptures by B. Thorvaldsen in Rome in 1815, had a significant impact on the interior decoration of palaces in Northern Europe, such as Schloss Sanssouci and Archangelskoye. With their symmetrical arrangement, these motifs perfectly balance the opposing spaces separated by doors, windows, or mirrors. These plaster precise casts were produced by Thorvaldsen Museum in Copenhagen. The background, here slightly violine, could be modified in grey, blue or green as requested.
