Description

Oil painting on canvas, circa 1900, in the Art Nouveau style. It depicts an interior scene featuring a woman seated at her dressing table. The Louis XVI-style furniture is beautifully rendered, as are the toiletries. The woman is wearing a light dress, as evidenced by the transparency of the upper part of her body; her shoes are placed on the rug. The rendering of the drapery and sheer fabric is flawlessly executed! The use of warm colors lends this work a great deal of sensuality. The artist, Émilio Rizzi, was born in Brescia, Italy. This painting dates from the 20th century, around 1900-1920, and is in the Art Nouveau style. It is presented in its original carved and gilded wooden frame, which is in very good condition. This painting has not been re-stretched, and there are no holes or signs of
