Description

An antique wax profile depicting King Louis XVI, presented in a small circular gilded metal frame with an antique patina. The king is depicted in profile, in a style characteristic of the late 18th century. The ivory-colored wax relief is set against a green background that highlights the silhouette and the details of the modeling. The piece is protected by a domed glass cover, typical of this type of miniature. The reverse bears an old handwritten inscription identifying the subject: "Louis XVI, King of France and Navarre," accompanied by the date of his death, "January 21, 1793." French work from the late 18th or early 19th century. Frame diameter: 8 cm. The wax retains its original appearance, with the small irregularities visible in the photographs.
