Description

Pair of Empire-style candlesticks in crystal and gilded bronze - 19th century A very beautiful pair of Empire-style candlesticks, dating from the 19th century, elegantly combining cut crystal and finely chased gilded bronze. Each candlestick rests on a substantial square, faceted crystal base, set within a delicate openwork gallery of gilded bronze. The mount features rich decoration characteristic of the Neoclassical and Empire styles: tritons blowing into a conch shell, laurel wreaths, ribbons, and foliage motifs. The entire piece rests on four small spherical feet adorned with winged motifs. The cylindrical shaft, made of clear crystal, is framed by gilded bronze bands with finely chiseled decoration. It is topped by an elegant circular lampshade with a radiating design. The transparency of the crystal, which is
