Description

Martigues, the Venice of Provence. View of the harbor, "the bird's mirror." The water reflects the colorful facades of the fishermen's houses. According to local legend, birds would come to perch there, and their reflections would be cast onto the water's surface, giving the impression of a true mirror.Many artists have painted this magical place. Oil on cardboard, signature to be identified in the lower right corner, dated 1937. Original frame. With frame: 41.5 × 32; Without frame: 32 × 21.5
