Description

A finely chiseled and gilded bronze chandelier dating from the 19th century, featuring a rich decorative composition inspired by Neoclassical and Empire styles. The central body, adorned with garlands, foliage, and stylized motifs, is enlivened by winged figures supporting elegant flowering branches. These branches are embellished with roses and foliage in gilded bronze and topped with flower-shaped molded glass shades. A central glass flame completes this spectacular composition. A remarkable decorative piece, characteristic of 19th-century historicist taste, combining the richness of gilded bronze with the delicacy of glass. Period: 19th century Materials: gilded bronze and glass Dimensions: Height: 60 cm × Width: 60 cm
