Description

Mahogany Weekly Planner - Empire/Restoration Period - Black Marble and Gilded Bronze An elegant mahogany weekly planner, dating from the first half of the 19th century, in the Empire-Restoration style. Featuring an architectural design, the front opens to reveal seven drawers, offering ample storage space. The drawer fronts showcase beautiful, carefully arranged wood grain. The top drawer is fitted with two ring handles featuring gilded bronze lion's paws. The vertical sides are accented with chiseled and gilded bronze fittings featuring figurative designs, as well as small decorative blocks at the bottom. An interesting feature is that one of the drawers conceals a sliding, fold-down writing shelf, upholstered in green leather with gold-stamped decorative motifs. The piece rests
