Rare Art Nouveau-era (circa 1890-1895) artistic glass vase with a poppy design by Emile Gallé in Nancy. Acid-etched decoration, worked with a grinding wheel and entirely hammered in shades of pink and red, with inclusions of powders and metallic oxides interspersed in shades of blue and orange. A thin green glass plaque is interspersed beneath a poppy. It is signed with a wheel under the vase "Emile Gallé Ft (for Fécit)" with a wheel-engraved poppy flower in the center. This vase was photographed for the book L'Art du Verre en France by Janine Bloch-Dermant, published in 1974, page 111 (see photo).
