A stunning, large modernist table lamp from the 1960s/1970s, part of the Fat Lava aesthetic movement. The base is a sculptural ceramic piece with a striking visual presence, characterized by: A rich, textured glaze with olive-green and speckled hues. Two graphic side handles. Intricate openwork on the front (raised perforations) that, when the lamp is lit, allows light to filter through an interior glazed in a warm, vibrant orange. A contemporary black cylindrical lampshade that contrasts elegantly with the brightness and texture of the ceramic.
