Description

Four-panel folding screen with floral still lifes - Signed M. Caron, dated 1887 - Napoleon III period Elegant four-panel folding screen made of carved and gilded wood, decorated with pearl friezes and interlaced patterns. Each panel is adorned with an oil-on-canvas painting depicting a different still life, in the decorative style of the late 19th century: a straw hat with a ribbon and a garland of flowers o blue irises o a cluster of white grapes and peaches o a bouquet of daisies in a blue-decorated earthenware vase, resting on a capital All panels are signed at the bottom "M. Caron . 1887." The bottom band is trimmed with red velvet. A charming decorative screen, ideal for defining a living room, bedroom, or hallway.
