Description

Important large-format modernist oil on canvas depicting a pensive woman, seated in a stylised interior or setting, with an African figure visible in the background. A striking and decorative composition built around broad areas of colour, with a strong palette of blues, reds, oranges and blacks. The painting has considerable visual presence due to both its subject and its unusually large dimensions. Oil on canvas - Belgian work, 20th century. Dimensions: 150 x 130 cm. The canvas is mounted on an old keyed stretcher with crossbars. No signature has been identified to our knowledge. Condition as shown in the photographs; sold as is. Regarding the attribution: A composition corresponding to this work is listed in the Artnet database under the title 'Femme pensive' and under the name of the Belgian artist Floris Jaspers (1889-1965), also described as an oil on canvas measuring 150 x 130 cm. However, the research and opinions obtained to date have not allowed the attribution to Floris Jaspers to be formally confirmed. For this reason, the painting is deliberately offered without attribution to Floris Jaspers. The Artnet reference is mentioned solely for documentary purposes and should not be regarded as a guarantee of authenticity or attribution.

Documentation can be provided upon request. An interesting work both for its substantial scale and for its strong modernist composition and subject matter. Due to the large dimensions, collection in person is preferred. Specialist transport or shipping can be arranged by agreement.
