Description

A double-sided, flat-topped Louis XVI-style desk from the mid-20th century, made of mahogany and mahogany veneer. It features three drawers in the base, mounted on oak frames with dovetail joints, and equipped with functional locks and keys. The top is upholstered in tan leather showing signs of use, with a few stains that lend it the charm of its past life. Two pull tabs are also upholstered in leather. The other side of the desk features faux drawers. The fluted legs are topped with bronze feet. Delivery available; please contact us.
