Description

The elegant LC6 table, an iconic piece of modern design created in 1928 by Le Corbusier, Pierre Jeanneret, and Charlotte Perriand, produced by Cassina as part of the I Maestri collection. This piece stands out for its superb rectangular clear glass top resting on a black lacquered steel frame with an ovoid profile, inspired by profiles used in aeronautics. The architectural lines of the base and the transparency of the glass give this table a presence that is both sculptural and particularly light. A beautiful Cassina edition, signed and numbered, sought after by enthusiasts and collectors of 20th-century design. The LC6 remains one of the most iconic creations of the Modernist movement and fits elegantly into contemporary interiors as well as classic or modernist settings. Design: Le Corbusier, Pierre
