Description

Elegant two-section display bookcase, 19th-century. The upper section opens with two glass-paneled doors , and the lower section features two solid doors and two drawers. The front features a rich burl veneer with highly decorative grain. The upper section is fitted with several adjustable and removable shelves. All the shelves are original, with mahogany fronts; half-shelves are also inserted to accommodate narrower items. The lower section features a compartmented unit, specifically a locker-style layout, providing additional storage space. The interior, which is lighter in color, contrasts pleasantly with the richness of the exterior veneer; it is made of solid oak. The upper cornice, the projecting rounded stiles, and the turned legs lend the piece a particularly elegant decorative
