

Pharmacy Jars, Earthenware, 18th Century.

380 EUR

Period : 18th century

Condition : Bon état

Material : Earthenware

Diameter : 11cm

Height : 24cm

Description

These three apothecary jars are decorated with blue foliage and a label indicating their contents. The baluster shape is elegant, and the lids are a match; the enamel is thick, and they are in good condition, although there is a small crack on one and a chip on a lid. The decoration has no particular distinguishing features, but one might think they originated in the Southwest? 380 euros for the three pieces.
