Description

A magnificent curcort-style desk from the "Le Standard" brand, dating from the 1930s. Rare in this type of wood--maple with a lemon-tree hue. It retains its beautiful original patina, which has been carefully restored in our workshop. It is fully functional; the curtain slides smoothly, and it locks with the original lock. The upper section of the desk is closed by a curtain that, when opened, reveals a beautiful workspace with plenty of storage and drawers. Underneath the top, there are two pull-out drawers. The lower section consists of two cabinets: the one on the left has 4 drawers, and the one on the right has 3, including a double drawer at the bottom for storing file folders. The back of the piece is just as attractive as the front; it can be used as a room divider. It can be disassembled into three parts: the top section and the two storage units. Its dimensions in cm: 128 x 82. Height ranges from 77 at the tabletops to 127. This piece is practical, authentic, and highly decorative. It fits perfectly into both vintage/industrial decor and more modern interiors as a characterful centerpiece. This item is also on display in my store in Morbihan, in southern Brittany, where you can pick it up if you'd like.
