Description

From a small collection of religious objects of Austrian origin, this discreet brass medallion features a suspension loop, thick rim and well-fitting closure, apparently all original. Inside is a delicate piece of monastic work, comprising two oval, concave compositions of gold- and silver-coloured threads. The first contains a tiny figure, probably representing Sainte Anne with two children, between two gilt crescents. The second contains two textile relics inscribed "S. de Jicleri" and "S. Teodori, martyr", arranged with silver purl decoration beneath two crescents. Fine early workmanship, 18th or 19th century. Good condition, with no notable defects.
