Description

Pair of Empire-period planters made of Paris porcelain. Cylindrical in shape and resting on a slight foot, these planters are adorned with a continuous pattern of cascading flowers. The entire circumference is covered with hand-painted designs; the bouquets feature a wide variety of flowers (the two planters do not share the same design). Gilding enhances the floral compositions. They feature side handles shaped like lion's paws. Both are hand-signed by the decorator. Base diameter: 14 cm Top diameter: 19 cm Width between handles: 23 cm Height: 18 cm
