Description

Two-seater sofa from the Swiss brand de Sede, model DS-70, dating from the 1980s. Overall condition: The original leather, which was originally cognac-colored, has developed a light, natural patina over time. The frame and upholstery show no tears. Comfort: The removable seat and back cushions retain excellent comfort and good support. Materials: Thick, high-quality leather unique to the brand and a base made of solid side panels upholstered in leather. W 160 x D 90 x H 85 De Sede, a Swiss company founded in 1965, designs and manufactures high-end furniture with an emphasis on leather craftsmanship, precision finishes, and the durability of its seating. Its products are renowned for combining artisanal expertise, comfort, and the understated lines
