German multi-tiered inkwell and writing desk by Friedrich Soennecken 19th century
BOU25ENC001 Friedrich was born in Iserlohn-Dröschede, Sauerland in 1848, the son of a blacksmith. On May 17, 1875, he founded F. Soennecken Verlag, a commercial enterprise located in Remscheid, Westphalia. His main inventions were the "round script" calligraphy style and the associated pen nib. Round script was designed to be a visually appealing and standardized calligraphic style, easy to learn and write. Soennecken published books on the subject in several languages, and his company also designed and manufactured writing-related items. The writing set/inkwell is in fairly good condition. It has a few cracks, likely original and resulting from the firing of the earthenware. It is
