Description

Small Mahogany Parlor Table from the Louis XVI Period, circa 1780. Charming Parlor Table, made of solid mahogany, from the Louis XVI period. This small parlor table rests on tapered legs with fluted grooves, joined by a crossbar. Its apron and legs are accented by a delicate carved frieze of interlacing patterns. Its connecting blocks are adorned with foliage motifs. The upper part of the table features an open niche on two levels, topped with a veined white marble slab. It is surmounted by a carved and openwork gallery, with a central motif featuring a leaf motif. A movable brass handle adorns each side, making it easy to move. Beautiful solid mahogany wood. High-quality furniture with simple and elegant lines, combining practicality and style--it can serve as a side table in your living room,
