Description

Pair of Medici cast-iron vases with Japanese-inspired decoration - 19th century A beautiful pair of large, patinated cast-iron vases, with a flared quadrangular shape, resting on a substantial molded base with four feet. The various sides feature a rich Japanese-inspired relief decoration, depicting Asian figures in traditional dress accompanied by various attributes. The ensemble is embellished with geometric friezes, foliage, and ornamental motifs. Each vase is fitted with two openwork side handles with scroll motifs. The upper section, which flares out widely, features a square opening highlighted by a decorative frieze. Beautiful antique brown-green patina, with traces of oxidation and natural hues that highlight the depth of the reliefs. Decorative piece from the
